PREFACE.

THIS paper upon the publication of books under more than one title was read at the meeting of the American Library Association, at Buffalo, last August. It appeared, with the accompanying list of titles, in the "Library Journal" for September–October, 1883, and later as a part of the printed proceedings of the Association.

The request has been made by many persons that both might be reprinted in a form more convenient for reference, and Mr. Leyboldt has offered to give to the proposed book a wider distribution by the addition of his imprint. As now published it contains more than nine hundred titles, or over one hundred more than are found in the previous issues.

It was the opinion of the librarians present at the convention at Buffalo that the custom of reprinting books under new titles is a pernicious one. It is hoped that by the publication of this book the circle of those holding this opinion may be enlarged.

A few translations of foreign books are mentioned, which bear titles unlike their originals. A more complete collection of such titles would form a serviceable hand-book for librarians and readers.

An acknowledgment is due to those who have aided in the preparation of this list; especially to Mr. Frank C. Blaisdell, and to others of my associates in the Boston Public Library, to Mr. William F. Poole, of the Chicago Public Library, Mr. John E. Edmands, of the Mercantile Library of Philadelphia, Mr. David Hutcheson, of the Library of Congress, Messrs. Trübner and Co., of London, and Mr. Emery Cleaves, of Boston.

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY,
March, 1884.

A MODERN PROTEUS.

PROTEUS, the story goes, could assume many shapes to escape the interviewer. His many sons and daughters, no doubt, inherited his propensities and passed them on to succeeding generations. When members of the family first came to America is not clearly ascertained. Perhaps with the great navigator, whom they may have granted to be now Colombo, and again Colon, or Columbus, and to lie buried at the same time in two different places, for a perplexity to the archæologist. However that may be, here they have been found in increasing numbers ever since, assuming forms corporeal and incorporeal, as multiform and elusive as their great original.

According to all accounts, Proteus must have been a most exasperating person, and, certainly, his descendants have proved, like him, a perplexity and a plague. That they should be such to the rest of mankind is not surprising; for, like the dwellers in Plato's Cave, they are, for the most part, satisfied with the shadow, ignorant or indifferent if there be a reality beside. But that the librarian, whose eye is single and whose calling apart, should find his way hedged in, is hard to understand. To him everything is supposed to be simple and within grasp, — an author, for example, an author (surname and Christian name), and a title a title, — these only, and no more.

Those of us, however, who spend our days in the pursuit of pseudonyms, come at last to feel that everything is but a shadow, of which a corresponding substance must be, far or near, to find ; that nothing comes in single shape, and nothing is what it appears upon the surface.

Of pseudonyms, however, although Proteus may well have been the father of the race, it is not my intention here to speak. If they come as shadows, they may, to-day at least, so depart.

Strange to say, the foes which baffle the librarian are often of his own household, and among his closest friends, even the books intrusted to his charge. And, although Richard de Bury tells him that, “ If, investigating, you interrogate them they conceal nothing,” as he reads their titles and turns over their pages he has a suspicion that all is not honest about them, and that they are but the shadows of something he has seen before ; and, going to the shelves, he finds often that under other titles they have for years, it may be, already done service.

And this is the modern Proteus to whom I invite your attention. Let us all join hands and form a ring, and see if he escape us this time.

I remember reading, some time ago, a letter in the Evening Post, of New York, from Mr. Brentano, the bookseller, in which he complained of the annoyance and loss to which he and others had been subjected by publishers giving to a book more than one title. I had already detected such cases, and since that time have watched somewhat closely for them. It may be worth the while to give here the titles of some of these double issues, that they may serve to put librarians, and especially those forming new libraries, on their guard, and may perhaps induce publishers to give a more careful attention to the subject.

Although Mr. Brentano calls this practice a "modern fraud" of the publisher, and others have denounced it equally unsparingly, it is to be borne in mind that these double publications often occur through thoughtlessness rather than from any cunningly devised scheme of wrong. Cases are frequent, indeed, which would seem, to all intents and purposes, to be fraud; as where a publisher, obtaining the stereotype plates of a book which has had its day, removes the certificate of copyright, and, making other changes to conceal its identity, gives it a new title and a new lease of life. Often, however, it would seem to be the result of inadvertence, the publisher, for instance, not realizing that, when he gives to a book a title to his mind more agreeable or appropriate than its original one, any harm can come of it. With the best of motives, however, he may well consider whether the gain resultant can compensate for the loss and confusion which are likely to arise. If it be added that changes in the titles of books are rarely improvements, the argument is still stronger against them. The title given, it may be said, has in many cases been adopted by the author himself, because it is a key to the character of the book, or may point its moral, or be suggested by some of its incidents. For good and sufficient reasons he has chosen it, and why should it be changed without cause? For like reasons, in translations of foreign books, the title should reproduce the original one as closely as possible. This is often not the case, and the title is generally weakened by the change. Apart from the question of truthfulness, what gain, for example, can there be in rendering Victor Hugo's "L'homme qui rit" as "By order of the king"? Or, take the case of Du Boisgobey's "La main coupée," that is, "The severed hand,"—so called from a sensational incident at the opening of the story,—why make the title read "The lost casket"? By such changes the reader is often hopelessly confused as to what an author may or may not have written. To connect, for example, some of the American translations of Dumas from their titles, and, for that matter, from anything to be found in the text, with their originals, is a difficult, not to say an impossible, undertaking.

Sometimes a change of title seems to be unavoidable. George MacDonald, having given to a book of miscellaneous matter the title "Orts," after it had been printed and too late for a change, was horrified to find in the dictionary that one meaning of the word is "Worthless leavings, or refuse." Here one could hardly blame the American publisher for choosing another title; or even the publisher of Charles Dudley Warner's "Mummies and Moslems," the title of which, apparently, being found gloomy and forbidding, gave place in a second edition to one more agreeable.

The author, or the publisher, occasionally frankly announces in the preface, as did "H. A. Page," of his "Vers de société," that the present issue is a new edition of a book already published under another name; and some reason is given for the change, as, in this case, that the new title is "more distinctive."

New titles are often mere rearrangements of old ones, as in J. Drew Gay's "From Pall Mall to the Punjaub; or, with the Prince in India," which, when reprinted, read "The Prince of Wales in India; or, from Pall Mall to the Punjaub." Here the identity of the two would at once be detected but for the fact that the first half of a title is all that is usually found in publishers' announcements and in catalogues. When the original title is repeated as a part of the new one it is often so concealed that its detection is difficult. In John Habberton's "Just one day," which became, with a change of publishers, "Mrs. Mayburn's twins; with her trials in the morning, afternoon and evening of just one day ”; or in Mrs. Fetherstonhaugh’s story “ Kilcorran,” which, in the American edition, is enlarged to “ Lil, fair, fair, with golden hair; or Kilcorran,” it is too much to ask of the librarian to know at sight that they are the same. His time is too valuable to be wasted on such small game. Besides, he cannot allow himself to look with suspicion upon the title of every new book, or sink the office of librarian in that of a detective. He must take the advertisements of publishers at their face value, and regard them as what they claim to be, — the announcements of “ new books ” and not of mere réchauffés.

Changes of title are at times so transparent as to deceive no one, as in the case of Dr. Nichols’s “ From whence, what, where? ” which became in a later edition less mysterious and redundant as “ Whence, what, where? A view of the origin, nature, and destiny of man ”; and Aldrich’s “ Story of a bad boy,” which the English publisher’s announcement softened by adding, “ Not a VERY bad boy.”

In all these cases, innocent or otherwise, with the exception of the last mentioned, and in others of a different kind, which might be added, the publisher and the author are the only ones to reap pecuniary gain. To the reader, the bookseller, and the librarian there is often a loss of money as well as of temper. The reader, as Mr. Brentano says, returns his book as already read under another title to the bookseller, who, conscious that his customer looks upon him as stupid or a cheat, adds it to his stock, already, it may be, superfluous from his double purchase. The library and its patrons are the greatest sufferers, it being impossible to sell a book without loss after it has once been labelled and sent out, and it may become necessary to go without some needed book, which might otherwise have been purchased.

In large public libraries and in circulating libraries, so called, which buy several copies of a new book, the loss is sometimes no slight one. We can all remember when the Jules Verne fever was at its height, how translation followed translation in quick succession, each with a title more appetizing than its predecessor, and how each story as it appeared was served up in three-dollar volumes in endless repetitions and combinations. It was no pleasure to call to mind the money spent at that time for duplicates, or to witness the wrecks which strewed our shelves after the Vernal equinox had passed.

Main

I ask your attention while I mention some of the books, for the most part of recent issue, which, although under two or more titles, are believed to be wholly or essentially the same.

These titles, gathered as chance has brought them, might be indefinitely increased. Enough has been given to serve to call attention to a practice which is believed to be disastrous to good morals and to good letters.

An examination of the several hundred titles here printed will show how greatly the custom of giving new titles to old books has increased of late, and how pressing is the need of a reform.

BOOKS,

FOR THE

Most part of Recent Issue, which, although under two or more Titles, are believed to be wholly or essentially the same.

ABBOTT, Lyman. Laicus; or, the experiences of a layman in a country parish. N. Y., Dodd and Mead, 1872. — 2d edition, same publishers, 1873, entitled "A layman's story; or, the experiences of John Laicus and his wife in a country parish."

ABOUT, Edmond François Valentin. The round of wrong. Trans. by Lascelles Wraxall. London, Ward and Lock, 1863.

The American translation is entitled "Germaine," Boston, Tilton, 1860, which is the title of the original.

ACLAND, Arthur Herbert Dyke, and RANSOME, Cyril. A hand-book of English politics for the last half-century. London, Rivingtons, 1883.

The larger part of this work is to be found in "A hand-book in outline of the political history of England to 1881, chronologically arranged," by the same authors and publishers, 1882.

ADAMS, Henry Cadwallader. College days at Oxford. N. Y., E. P. Dutton and co. [1882.]

Printed from the same plates as "Wilton of Cuthberts; a tale of under-graduate life thirty years ago." London, Griffith and Farran, 1878.

ADAMS, John Turvill. The knight of the golden melice. [Anon.] 1857. — The white chief among the red men; or, knight of the golden melice. [Anon.] 1859. Both, N. Y., Derby & Jackson. — D. H.

ADAMS, William Henry Davenport. Stories of the lives of noble women. London, T. Nelson and sons, 1882.

"Originally issued under the title of 'The sunshine of domestic life,' and passed through several editions." — Preface.

ALCOTT, Louisa May. Little women wedded. London, S. Low. — Little women. Part second. Boston, Roberts bros., 1869.

ALCOTT, William Alexander.

Two medical books by this author, of which many editions were published in Boston in 1855 and 1856, by John P. Jewett and co., were united by another publisher in 1868, with a title differing from either. Dr. Alcott, who died in 1859, nine years before, appears to have returned to this sphere to sign the preface "The author, Boston, 1868."

— The use of tobacco, 1857. — Tobacco: its effects on the human system; with notes and additions by N. Sizer, 1883. Both, N. Y., Fowler and Wells.

ALDEN, Isabella Mayo. (Pansy.) Obeying the call. Glasgow, J. S. Marr and sons, 1878. The same, with trifling variations, as "The Chautauqua girls at home." Boston, D. Lothrop [1877].

ALDEN, William L. Domestic explosives and other sixth column fancies. (From the New York Times.) By W. L. Alden. N. Y., Lovell, Adam, Wesson and co., 1877. — The comic liar. A book not commonly found in Sunday schools. By the funny man of the New York Daily Times. With many harrowing illustrations. N. Y., G. W. Carleton and co., 1883. — C. W. M

ALDRICH, Thomas Bailey. The story of a bad boy. Boston, Houghton, Osgood and co., 1869. — Tom Bailey's adventures; or, the story of a bad boy. Boston, J. R. Osgood and co., 1877.

ALL for him. By * * * * ? N. Y., G. W. Carleton and co., 1877. — Sweetheart and wife. Same publishers, 1882. — D. H.

ARNOLD, Matthew. A Bible-reading for schools. The great prophecy of Israel's restoration (Isaiah, chapters 40-66). Arranged and edited for young learners. 4th edition. London, Macmillan and co., 1875.

This book was first published in 1872, and was reprinted with additions in 1875 with the title "Isaiah XL-LXVI with the shorter prophecies allied to it."

ATLANTIC tales. Boston, Ticknor and Fields, 1865.
— Modern classics, Phila., Porter and Coates.

AUERBACH, Berthold. Barfüssele.

Has been translated in various editions, as "The barefooted maiden," and "The little barefoot."

— Villa Eden: the country house on the Rhine. Boston, Roberts brothers, 1869.

Another translation is entitled "Villa on the Rhine." N. Y., Leypoldt and Holt, copyright, 1869. The original is entitled "Das Landhaus am Rhein."

AYRES, J. H. Every man his own doctor, 1879.
— Carleton's household physician, 1882. Both,
N. Y., G. W. Carleton and co. — D. H.

AZEGLIO, Massimo. [Giuseppe Maria Girolamo Raffaele Massimo Taparelli, marchese d'Azeglio.] Florence betrayed; or, the last days of the republic. Boston, W. V. Spencer, 1856. — Niccolò dei Lapi; or the last days of the Florentine republic. Phila., J. B. Lippincott and co., 1860. The original is "Niccolò de' Lapi." — J. E.

BALFOUR, John Hutton. Systematic and economic botany. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's sons, 1874. — Vegetable anatomy and physiology. — American catalogue.

BARCLAY, John. The Phoenix; or the history of Polyarchus and Argenis. Trans. from the Latin, by a lady [Clara Reeve]. London, J. Bell, 1772. A translation of the "Argenis."

BARING-GOULD, Sabine. Gabrielle André. An historical novel. N. Y., D. Appleton and co., 1871. The same as "In exitu Israel." London, Macmillan, 1870.

BARNARD, Charles. Gardening for money. How it was done in flowers, strawberries, vegetables. Boston, Loring [1869]. — $2,000 a year on fruits and flowers; or, my ten-rod farm, and how I became a florist. Phila., J. E. Potter and co., no date. — D. H.

BARTLETT, David W. What I saw in London. N. Y., C. M. Saxton, Barker and co., 1860. — London by day and night. N. Y., Hurst and co., no date. — D. H.

BELOT, Adolphe. The black Venus. A tale of the dark continent. Trans. and adapted from the French by George D. Cox. Phila., T. B. Peterson & bros. 1881.

Is a condensed and adapted translation of a connected series of three works: "La sultane parisienne," "La fièvre de l'inconnu," "La Vénus noire"; and these are published in this country as: 1. "The Parisian sultana." From the French. N. Y., G. Munro, 1881. (Seaside Library, No. 1021.) 2. "The thirst for the unknown." (Sequel to "The Parisian sultana.") From the French. N. Y., G. Munro, 1881. (Seaside Library, No. 1036.) 3. "The black Venus." (Sequel to "Thirst for the unknown.") From the French. N. Y., G. Munro, 1881. (Seaside library, No. 1078.) — D. H.

— Fedora: or, the tragedy in the Rue de la Paix. Trans. from the French by A. D. H. Chicago, Rand, McNally & co., 1883. — Men are what women make them; or, the drama of Rue de la Paix. From the French. By Julia Morton Furbish. Phila., H. N. McKinney and co. [1872.] The original title is "Le drame de la Rue de la Paix." — D. H.

BENEDICT, Frank Lee. Her friend Laurence. N. Y., G. W. Carleton and co., 1879. — Do I love her? [Author's name removed.] Same pubs., 1882. — D. H., in Library journal, June, 1883. — Madame. 1877. — A woman's requital. [No author mentioned in the second.] 1883. Both, N. Y., G. W. Carleton and co. — D. H.

BENNETT, Emerson. The forged will; or, crime and retribution. Phila., T. B. Peterson and bros., copyright, 1853. — The orphan's trials; or, alone in a great city. Same pubs., copyright, 1874. The same. — J. E.

BOYS and girls' miscellany. Boston, Houghton Osgood and co., 1880. — Our young folks. 1871. Trowbridge's "Jack Hazard and his fortunes" is published in this volume.

BRABAZON, Elizabeth J. Tales from Spanish history. 1853. — Historical tales from the history of the Muslims in Spain, no date. Both, London, Jarrold and son.

BRACKETT, Anna Callender, and ELIOT, Ida M., compilers. Poetry for home and school. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's sons, 1876.

A second edition, same publisher, 1877, adding portraits and illustrations, and without other changes, is entitled "The silver treasury of poetry for home and school."

BRADDON, Mary Elizabeth. Bound to John Company; or, the adventures and misadventures of Robert Ainsleigh. N. Y., Harper and bros., 1869. The same, with variations, as "Robert Ainsleigh." London, Maxwell; Berlin, A. Asher and co., 1872. — J. E.

— Lucius Davoren; or publicans and sinners. London, Maxwell, 1873; Leipzig, Tauchnitz. — Publicans and sinners; or, Lucius Davoren. N. Y., Harper and bros., 1874. — J. E.

— Milly Darrell and other tales. [Anon.] London, Maxwell, 1873; N. Y., G. W. Carleton and co. — Meeting her fate, by the author of "Aurora Floyd." [Anon.] N. Y., G. W. Carleton and co., 1881. — D. H.

— Run to earth. London, Ward and Lock, 1868; Leipzig, Tauchnitz, 1869. — Daviola; or, nobody's daughter. N. Y., Dick and Fitzgerald, no date. (With changes in the text.) — J. E.

BRADLEY, Rev. Edward. The adventures of Verdant Green, an Oxford freshman. By Cuthbert Bede [pseud.].— The Dude, or the adventures of Verdant Green. N. Y., G. W. Carleton and co., 1883. — D. H.

One would as soon look to see a new title to "Robinson Crusoe" or "The Vicar of Wakefield," as to this classic in its way, so well known to many generations of students. Besides, it is hardly fair to Verdant Green to call him a Dude.

BRAY, Anna Eliza. The borders of the Tamar and the Tavy. In a series of letters to the late Robert Southey. New ed. London, W. Kent and co., 1879.

First published by Murray, in 1836, with the title, "A description of the part of Devonshire bordering on the Tamar and the Tavy." The new edition contains alterations.

BREMER, Fredrika. Hertha. London, 1856; N. Y., G. P. Putnam and co., 1856. — The four sisters, a tale of social and domestic life in Sweden. Phila., T. B. Peterson and co., no date. Both translated by Mary Howitt, and the same. — J. E.

BRIDGMAN, Thomas. Epitaphs from Copp's hill burial ground, Boston. With notes. Boston, J. Munroe, 1851. The same, with slight variations, as "Memorials of the dead in Boston: containing inscriptions, epitaphs, and records on the monuments and tombstones in Copp's Hill burying ground." Boston, Munroe and Francis, 1852.

BUCHANAN, Robert. The land of Lorne. London, Chapman and Hall, 1871. — The Hebrid isles: wanderings in the land of Lorne and the outer Hebrides. New edition. London, Chatto and Windus, 1883. — D. H.

BUERSTENBINDER, Elisabeth (E. Werner.) Am Altar. Leipzig, Keil, 1873. At the altar. Transl. by Mrs. Parker. London, S. Low, 1878. At the altar. Phila., J. B. Lippincott and co., 1872. Bound by his vows; or, at the altar. Same publishers. [1874.] Sacred vows. Transl. by Bertha Ness. London, Remington, 1877. — D. H. and W. M. G.

— "Glück auf." Translated, Boston, Osgood, 1874, as "Good luck." The London translation is entitled "Success, and how he won it." London, R. Bentley and son, 1877.

— Riven bonds, a novel; trans. by B. Ness. London, Remington, 1877. — Broken chains. Transl. by F. A. Shaw. Boston, Osgood, 1875, Boston, Estes and Lauriat, no date. — J. E.

— Um hohen Preis. Leipzig, Keil, 1879.

Translated, "At a high price." Boston, Estes and Lauriat, 1879, and "No surrender." (Seaside library, No. 1525.) N.Y., G. Munro [1883]. — D. H.

— Vineta. Leipzig, Keil, 1877.

Translated, "Vineta, the phantom city. From the German, by Francis A. Shaw." Boston, Estes and Lauriat, 1877. — "Under a charm; a novel from the German, by Christina Tyrrell." London, Bentley, 1878.

BURDETT, Charles. The beautiful spy. Story of army and high life in New York in 1776. Phila., J. E. Potter, copyright, 1865.

First published by the same with the title "Margaret Moncrieffe; the first love of Aaron Burr."

BURNETT, Frances Hodgson. Vagabondia. A love story. Boston, J. R. Osgood and co., 1883. Originally published in a ladies' magazine under the name of "Dorothea," afterwards in book form as "Dolly." (Phila., Porter and Coates, [1877].) — Author's note.

CARLÉN, Emilia Flygare Schmidt. One year; a tale of wedlock. N. Y., Scribner. — Lavinia; or, one year. A tale of wedlock. From the original Swedish by Alex. L. Krause and Elbert Perce. N.Y., J. Miller, 1873.

CARLETON'S (G. W.) hand-book of popular quotations. — Many thoughts of many minds. (Carleton.) — Carleton's new hand-book of popular quotations. N. Y., 1877; 1882; 1883. — D. H.

CARLETON'S (G. W.) household encyclopædia and hand-book of general information. N.Y., 1879. — Carleton's hand-book of general information. 1882. — D. H.

CARLYLE, Thomas. On the choice of books. London, 1866.

This rather misleading title was given to an edition, prefaced with other matter, of Carlyle's Address on being installed as Rector of the University of Edinburgh, which had been published by authority (Edinburgh, Edmonston and Douglas, 1866), under its proper title. Carlyle, in a letter to Mr. Emerson, 4 June, 1871 (Correspondence, ii, 340), calls the publisher "A dirty little pirate, who snatches at everybody grown fat enough to yield him a bite (paltry, unhangd creature)."

CARPENTER, Frank B. The inner life of Abraham Lincoln. Six months at the White House. Boston, Houghton, Mifflin and co., 1883. — Six months at the White House with Abraham Lincoln. N. Y., Hurd and Houghton, 1866.

CHAMPLIN, John Denison, jr. The child's catechism of common things. N. Y., Holt, 1879.

Was republished by the same firm in 1882, as "Young folks' catechism of common things," with some changes in the wording.

— The young folks' cyclopædia of common things. By John D. Champlin, jr. With illustrations. N.Y., Holt, 1880. Appeared, London, Kegan, Paul, Trench and co., 1882, as "The little cyclopædia of common things. Edited by the Rev. Sir George W. Cox, bart., M.A. With illustrations."

With the exception of some additions and omissions, this is the same as the preceding. An American edition is alluded to in the preface, but there is no mention of the author. The book was, at first, a welcome one in America, where the editor was favorably known from his connection with the "Dictionary of science, literature, and art, by Brande and Cox." Afterwards, the method of its publication was severely criticised.

CLEVELAND, Richard J. A narrative of voyages and commercial enterprises. 2 v. Cambridge, J. Owen, 1842; 2d ed. 2 v. Cambridge, J. Owen, 1843; 3d ed. Boston, C. H. Pierce, 1850. — Voyages and commercial enterprises of the sons of New England. [Anon.] N. Y., Leavitt and Allen, 1855. — D. H.

COCKTON, Henry. The fatal marriages. Philadelphia, Peterson. Is said to have been published under the title "The sisters; or, the fatal marriages."

COFFIN, Charles Carleton. Four years of fighting, from the battle of Bull Run to the fall of Richmond. Boston, Ticknor and Fields, 1866. This was reprinted from the same plates, Boston, Estes and Lauriat, 1882, with the title "The boys of '61; or, four years of fighting" [etc.].

COOKE, John Esten. Henry St. John, gentleman, of Flower of Hundreds in the county of Prince George, Virginia. A tale of 1774-75. N. Y., Harper and bros., 1859. — Bonnybel Vane; embracing the history of Henry St. John, gentleman. Same publishers, 1883. With a new preface.

If this author's other stories are to be republished it is hoped that the publishers will not rob them of their familiar titles.

COOPER, James Fenimore.

The titles of some of Cooper's novels have suffered a sea change in crossing the Atlantic. For example, in the English editions, "Miles Wallingford" becomes "Lucy Hardinge"; "The Wept of Wish-ton-Wish" becomes "The borderers; or, the Wept of Wish-ton-Wish"; "The wing-and-wing, or, Le feu-follet" becomes "The Jack-o'Lantern"; while the French translations of many of his novels bear titles curiously unlike the originals.

CRUEL secret, A. N. Y., G. W. Carleton and co., 1883. The same as "All for her; or, St. Jude's assistant." A novel. By * * * ?" Same publishers, 1877.

The half-title and running-title read "St. Jude's assistant," under which name it has been advertised by the same firm, and possibly may have been published.

Since the above was written Mr. John F. Butler, of

New York, in a letter to the Literary world, published Oct. 20, 1883, states that the author, a well-known lawyer in New York city, copyrighted this book in 1876, under the title "St. Jude's assistant." While being stereotyped the publishers failed. Another publisher bought the plates of the assignee, took out a new copyright, and issued the story anonymously, under the title "All for her," and sold over 50,000 copies. He states that it was also published in 1882 with the title "Little St. Jude's," and also, as already stated, in 1883, under the title "A cruel secret."

CUPPLES, Ann Jane. (Mrs. George Cupples.) Tappy's chicks, and other links between nature and human nature. London, Strahan and co., 1872. — Republished, Boston, Lee and Shepard, 1872, with the title "Singular creatures, and how they were found; being stories and studies from the domestic zoölogy of a Scotch parish."

DALTON, William. John Chinaman; or, adventures in Flowery land. Boston, copyrighted, James Munroe and co., 1858; later, Crosby and Nichols. — The wolf boy of China. N. Y., World publishing house, 1877. — J. E.

DARRINGTON-DESLONDE, Maria. John Maribel. N. Y., G. W. Carleton and co., 1877. — My heart's content. [Author's name removed.] Same pubs., 1882. — D. H., in Library journal, June, 1883.

—The miller of Silcott mill. N. Y., G. W. Carleton and co., 1877. Republished by the same firm in 1883, with the title "For love and honor."

The author's name is given in the earlier, but not in the later, issue.

DAUDET, Alphonse. Jack. From the French, by Mary Neal Sherwood. 1st American edition. Boston, Estes and Lauriat, 1877. (Cobweb series.)

The London translation, by L. Ford (S. Low, 1877), entitled "My brother Jack; or, the story of What-d'ye-call-'em," is not, as has been supposed, another translation of the French book "Jack," but of Daudet's "Le petit chose, histoire d'un enfant."

The French original is entitled "Pauline."

— Taking the Bastile; or, six years later. London, C. H. Clarke, 1860; Routledge, no date. — Six years later; or, the taking of the Bastile. Phila., T. B. Peterson and bros., no date. — J. E. The original is "L'ange Pitou."

— The three guardsmen. Phila., Peterson. — "The three musketeers." London, Routledge.

Translations, it is said, of "Les trois mousquetaires."

Besides the stories here mentioned the following, written by Dumas, or that pass under his name, have English titles unlike the original: Acté (translated Acté of Corinth); — Le capitaine Richard (The twin lieutenants); — Catherine Blum (Catherine Blume; — The foresters); — La comtesse de Charny (The countess de Charny; — last part, Andree de Taverney); — Conscience l'innocent (The conscript); — La dame de Monsoreau (Diana of Meridor; or, the lady of Monsoreau; — Chicot the jester); — Gabriel Lambert (The galley slave); — Gaule et France (The progress of democracy); — La guerre des femmes (Nanon); — L'île de feu (Doctor Basilius); — Impressions de voyage: L'Arabie heureuse (Impressions of travel in Egypt and Arabia Petræa); — Impressions de voyage: Midi de la France (Pictures of travel in the South of France); — Impressions de voyage: Le véloce (Tales of Algeria); — La maison de glace (The Russian gipsy); — Les Mohicans de Paris (The Mohicans of Paris; — last part, The horrors of Paris; — Continuation and conclusion of The Mohicans, Salvator); — Le page du duc de Savoie (Emmanuel-Philibert; — The page of the Duke of Savoy); — Les quarante-cinq (The forty-five guardsmen); — La reine Margot (Marguerite de Valois; — Margaret of Navarre); — Sylvandre (The young chevalier; — The marriage verdict; — Beau Tancred); — Le vicomte de Bragelonne. (First part only becomes Bragelonne; — the second part, The iron mask; — the third part, Louise La Vallière.) — D. H.

Among the stories published in English, under the name of Dumas, to which it is difficult to find anything in French corresponding, is "Edmond Dantes. A sequel to the Count of Monte-Cristo. By Alexandre Dumas." With Peterson's imprint, but copyrighted by George W. Noble, in 1878. Perhaps the period should be removed after Monte-Cristo, and the reading should be "A sequel to the Count of Monte-Cristo by Alexandre Dumas." Found with the punctuation given on the title-page it is put in catalogues, of course, under the name of Dumas. On the reverse of the title-page, Edmond Dantes is mentioned as one of "Alexander Dumas' great works." What is the French original of "Love and liberty: a thrilling narrative of the French revolution. By Alexandre Dumas." Phila., Peterson [1869]?

DUPUY, Eliza A. "How he did it." — "Was he guilty?" Both, T. B. Peterson and bros., copyright, 1871 and 1873.

GUIDE to accomplishments in conversation, letter-writing, and oratory. Edited by Mrs. Jane Aster. N. Y., G. W. Carleton and co., 1879. Made up of two books, viz.: Edward W. Cox. "The arts of writing, reading, and speaking," 1864, and "The art of conversation" [Anon.], 1871; both by the same publisher as the edition of 1879 above. — D. H.

HABBERTON, John. Just one day. N. Y., G. R. Lockwood, 1879. Becomes, Phila. [1882], "Mrs. Mayburn's twins; with her trials in the morning, afternoon, and evening of just one day."

This might be examined more closely, as an example of the new methods of book-making under consideration. The new edition seems to be printed from the old plates, the only alteration apparent in the text being in the last two lines, which, to correspond with the altered title, read, instead of "And thus it was that the thread of mamma's existence . . . was woven through 'Just one day,'" stands " . . . was woven through the morning, noon, afternoon, and evening of one day." The paging in the new book begins with number 23, adding correspondingly to the figures of the last page. Unfortunately, the paging of the table of contents was not altered to correspond, and it is all wrong.

HABITS, The, of good society, 1872. — The ladies' and gentlemen's etiquette book of the best society. Edited by Mrs. Jane Aster, 1879. — Sensible etiquette and good manners of the best society. Edited by Mrs. Jane Aster, 1882. All, N. Y., G. W. Carleton and co., and the same with some changes.

The last adds 35 pages on the art of writing. — D. H.

HAWTHORNE, Nathaniel.

"The marble faun; or, the romance of Monte Beni," as we all know, was published in London and Leipzig under the title of "Transformation; or, the romance of Monte Beni." Several names had been proposed, Mr. George P.

Lathrop says,¹ among them "The transformation of the faun," which the English publisher shortened to "Transformation." Hawthorne complained of the title Transformation as giving the idea of "Harlequin in a pantomime." On the other hand, Henry James, in his "Hawthorne" objects to the title "Marble faun" as failing "to characterize the story, the subject of which is the living faun, the faun of flesh and blood, the unfortunate Donatello. His marble counterpart is mentioned only in the opening chapter."

HUGHES, Thomas. Tom Brown's school days. London, Macmillan; Leipzig, Tauchnitz; Phila., H. B. Ashmead. — School days at Rugby. Boston, Ticknor and Fields.

HUGO, Victor Marie, comte. By order of the king. Leipzig, Tauchnitz, 1870. — The man who laughs. N. Y., Appleton, 1873. Different translations of "L'homme qui rit."

— The slave-king. From the Bug-Jargal of Victor Hugo. Library of romance, vol. 6. London, 1833. — Bug-Jargal. N. Y., J. Mowatt and co., 1844. — D. H.

HUNT, Mrs. Alfred W. "Self-condemned." London, Chatto and Windus, 1883.

The statement has been made that this story has been republished at Boston, without the author's name, as one of the "No name series," with the title "Barrington's fate." The two books begin with the same words. I have not seen a copy of the London edition, to see what changes, if any, have been made in the American edition.

HUNTER, John D. Manners and customs of several Indian tribes located west of the Mississippi, including some account of the soil . . . to which is prefixed the history of the author's life during a residence of several years among them. Phila., the author, 1823. — Memoirs of a captivity among the Indians of North America . . . with anecdotes descriptive of their manners and customs, to which is added some account of the soil . . . London, 1823.

The latter contains three chapters not found in the former. — J. E.

IN the tropics. By a settler in Santo Domingo. With an introductory notice by R. B. Kimball. N.Y., Carleton, 1863. — Life in Santo Domingo. By a settler. With an introduction explanatory, by R. B. Kimball. N.Y., G. W. Carleton and co., 1873. — D. H.

INGRAHAM, Joseph Holt. The Sunny South; or, the Southerner at home. Phila., G. G. Evans, 1860. Becomes, after the publication of Tourgee's "Fool's errand," "Not 'A fool's errand;' life and experience of a Northern governess in the sunny South." N. Y., Carleton, 1883.

JAMES, George Payne Rainsford. Revenge. London, Newby, 1851. — The man in black. An historical novel of the days of Queen Anne. Phila., T. B. Peterson and bros., copyright, 1860. — J. E.

JAPP, Alexander Hay. (H. A. Page.) Vers de société and parody. With other essays. London, T. Fisher Unwin, 1883.

"The first edition was published under the title 'Literary bye-hours.' In issuing this new edition it has been considered advisable to give it a more distinctive title." — Preface.

JERROLD, William Blanchard. The best of all good company. First series. Dickens, Lytton, Thackeray, Scott, Disraeli, Douglas Jerrold. London, Houlston and sons, 1873. Republished, with omissions, by Shepard and Gill, Boston, 1874, with the title "The best of all good company. First series. Dickens, Scott, Thackeray, Jerrold;" also, in 1883, by R. Worthington, N. Y., with the title "Days with great authors, comprising choice selections from Dickens, Scott, Thackeray, and Douglas Jerrold."

JONES, Cornelia. Heavenward led; or, the two bequests. By Jane R. Sommers [pseud.]. Phila., Porter and Coates, copyright, 1871.

The running-title and the half-title read "Heavenward bound; or, the two bequests." Mr. Edmonds states that this story was first published under the title "Heavenward bound, etc.," and that a change was made at the request of the Presbyterian board of publication, which had already published a book with the same title.

JONES, J. B. The Spanglers and Tingles; or, the rival belles. Phila., A. Hart, 1852. — The rival belles; or, life in Washington. Phila., T. B. Peterson and bros. [1878.] — D. H.

KIMBALL, Richard Burleigh. Romance of student life abroad. N. Y., G. P. Putnam and co., 1853; Leipzig, Tauchnitz, 1854. — Students abroad. N. Y., G. P. Putnam, 1862.

— To-day. N. Y., Carleton, 1870. — To-day in New York. Leipzig, Tauchnitz, 1870. D. H. states, in the Library journal, that this was republished in New York, in the year 1881, by Carleton, with the title "An artful widow."

— Was he successful? N. Y., G. W. Carleton, 1864. — His idol (author's name removed), same pubs., 1880. D.H., in Library journal, June, 1883.

— The missing ship; or, notes from the log of the Ouzel galley, London, Griffith and Farrar. — Ouzel galley; or notes from an old sea log. Same pubs., 1877.

KINNS, Samuel. Moses and geology; or, the harmony of the Bible with science. — The harmony of the Bible with science; or, Moses and geology. [2d edition.] Both, Cassell, P. G., and co., 1882.

KIRBY, Mary and Elizabeth. The world at home. London, T. Nelson and sons. 1880. — The world by the fireside. Same publishers, 1883.

KIRKLAND, Caroline Matilda. Our new home in the West. By Mrs. Mary Clavers (Mrs. C. M. Kirkland). N. Y., J. Miller, 1872. Originally published in 1839, with the title "A new home; who'll follow? By Mary Clavers, an actual settler." N. Y., C. S. Francis.

LACOMBE, Paul. The growth of a people: a short study in French history. A translation of the "Petite histoire du peuple français," by Lewis A. Stimson. N. Y., H. Holt and co., 1883.

An earlier translation (Boston, H. A. Young and co., 1878) is entitled "A short history of the French people."

LETTERS everywhere. London, Seeley, 1869; Boston, Lee and Shepard, 1871. Republished by the latter firm in 1881, with the title "Young folks' rhymes and stories."

LEVER, Charles James. The O'Donoghue; a tale of Ireland fifty years ago. Leipzig, Tauchnitz; Various English editions, and Phila., Carey and Hart. — Kate O'Donoghue. Phila., Peterson, no date. — J. E.

LIEFDE, J. B. de. The beggars. (Les gueux.) London, Hodder and Stoughton, 1873. — Galama; or, the beggars. N. Y., Scribner, Armstrong and co.

“Called Galama, that it may not be confounded with ‘The beggars,’ which appeared in this country several years ago.” — Publishers' note.

LINDLEY, Augustus F. A cruise in Chinese waters, being the log of “The Fortuna.” 4th edition. London, Cassell, P. G., and co. [1882.] An earlier edition was entitled “The log of the Fortuna.” — English catalogue.

LOVER, Samuel. He would be a gentleman. Various editions.

First published with the title “Treasure trove.” — Preface.

There are editions which have the old title on the cover and the new one on the title-page. Whenever there are such double entries confusion is apt to arise, as may be seen under the name Winsor in this list.

MACAULAY, James. Grey Hawk: life and adventures among the Red Indians. Phila., J. B. Lippincott and co., 1883.

An alteration and abridgment of the Narrative of John Tanner's thirty years' captivity among the Indians of North America, published, N. Y., G. and C. and H. Carvill.

This is almost word for word, the same as Bennett, Edmund Hastings. Farm law. Boston, Rand, Avery and co., 1879. — D. H.

MACDONALD, George. Orts. London, S. Low, 1882.

The American edition (Boston, D. Lothrop, 1883) is called "The imagination and other essays."

MCKNIGHT, Charles. Captain Jack the scout; or, the Indian wars about old Fort Duquesne. Phila., Porter and Coates, copyright, 1873. — Old Fort Duquesne; or, Captain Jack the scout. Leipzig, Tauchnitz. — Captain Jack. A story of Indian adventure. London, F. Warne and co. [1874].

MACLEOD, Rev. Xavier, professor of rhetoric and belles-lettres in St. Mary's College, Cincinnati. History of the devotion to the blessed Virgin Mary in North America. With a memoir of the author by the most Rev. John B. Purcell. N. Y., Virtue and Yorston, 1866. The same as "History of Roman Catholicism in North America," same publishers. The notice of copyright is removed. — The Dial, July, 1883, p. 72.

MACQUOID, Katharine S. A faithful lover. London, Hurst and Blackett, 1882, and Leipzig, Tauchnitz, 1882. — Esau Runswick. N. Y., Putnam, 1882. The same, with omissions and variations.

MAHAN, Asa. Modern mysteries explained and exposed. In four parts. Boston, J. P. Jewett and co., 1855. — The phenomena of spiritualism scientifically explained and exposed. London, Hodder and Stoughton, 1875.

The Introduction of the latter, consisting of 77 pp., is new. From p. 78 to the end (p. 421), it is, with the exception of a page here and there, and some alteration in the text, a reprint of a portion of the first book. — D. H.

MANZONI, Alessandro. The betrothed (I promessi sposi). Called in some English editions "The betrothed lovers"; in others, "The betrothed."

An American edition, N. Y., G. Dearborn, 1834, bears the title, "Lucia the betrothed."

MARRYAT, Florence. A broken blossom. London, Tinsley bros., 1879; Leipzig, Tauchnitz, 1879. — Ange. N. Y., G. W. Carleton, 1879.

— A harvest of wild oats. London, Tinsley bros., 1877; Leipzig, Tauchnitz, 1877; N. Y., Carleton, 1877. Republished, N. Y., Carleton, 1879, as "Heart to heart." The same publisher advertises in 1881 "Wild oats, by Florence Marryat," which may possibly be a third issue of the same.

MARSHALL, John J. The outlaw brothers. N. Y., Beadle and co. [1864.] — The child captive. N. Y., Beadle and Adams [1874]. — The outlaw brothers. N. Y., Beadle and Adams [1879]. — D. H.

MARTINEAU DES CHESNEZ, Madame la baronne Elisabeth. Marquise and Rosette. London, Strahan, no date. Published, Phila., Porter and Coates, 1873, as "Lady Greensatin and her maid Rosette." The original is "La marquise de Satin-vert et sa femme de chambre Rosette." Paris, 1868.

MATHEWS, Cornelius. The Indian fairy book. N. Y., Leavitt and Allen, 1868. — The enchanted moccasins, and other legends of the American Indians. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's sons, 1877.

MAURER, Leberecht. Jesuiten oder Freimaurer? Roman. Leipzig, Krüger und Roskoschny, 1876.

This story has been previously printed in periodicals under the title "Die Geheimbündler" and also as "Neutempler und Rosenkreuzer."—Preface.

MAY, T. P. A prince of Bressny. Phila., T. B. Peterson and bros. [1881.] — Lady Edith. Same publishers [1882.] — D. H.

O'MEARA, Kathleen. (Grace Ramsay.) The bells of the sanctuary. A daughter of St. Dominick. London, R. Washbourne, 1873. First published in the Catholic world for February, 1873, under the title of "A daughter of St. Dominic."

OSBORNE, Elise. Life and its aims: in two parts. [Anon.] Phila., Lippincott, Grambo and co., 1854. — Life's lottery; or, life and its aims. [4th ed. Anon.] Phila., Claxton, Remsen, and Haffelfinger, 1869. — D. H.

PAALZOW, Henrietta Johanna, geb. Wach. The citizen of Prague. Translated by Mary Howitt. N. Y., Harper and brothers.

The original is entitled "Thomas Thyrnau."

PANCOAST, Seth. Blue and red light, and its rays as medicine. Phila., J. M. Stoddard and co. [1877.] The same as "The Kabala; or, the true source of light" (same publishers and same date).

PARDON, George F. Tales from the operas. N. Y., Carleton, 1865. Republished by the same in 1883 as "Book of the operas," which might naturally be supposed to be a libretto.

PARR, Louisa. The Prescotts of Pamphillon. London, Isbister, 1873; Leipzig, Tauchnitz, 1874. — Hero Carthew, or the Prescotts of Pamphillon. N. Y., Holt, 1873.

PARTON, James. People's book of biography. Hartford, A. S. Hale & co., 1868. — Great men and their achievements. N. Y., The Arundel print [1881]. (An enlarged edition of the first.) — Achievements of celebrated men. N. Y., J. B. Alden, 1883. The same as "Great Men." — D. H.

PAYN, James. Like father, like son. London, Tinsley, 1870; Leipzig, Tauchnitz, 1871. — Bred in the bone; or, like father, like son. N. Y., Harper and bros., 1872. — J. E.

PEABODY, Elizabeth Palmer. Record of a school. [Anon.] Boston, 1835. — Record of Mr. Alcott's school. 3d edition. [Anon.] Boston, Roberts bros., 1874.

PEOPLE, The, of Turkey: twenty years' residence among Bulgarians [etc.]. By a consul's daughter and wife. Ed. by Stanley Lane-Poole. London, J. Murray, 1878. — Twenty years' residence among the people of Turkey [etc.]. N. Y., Harper, 1878.

PETERS, Dewitt C.* The life and adventures of Kit Carson, the Nestor of the Rocky mountains. N. Y., W. R. C. Clark & co., 1858. Republished, Hartford, Dustin, Gilman & co., copyright, 1873, as "Kit Carson's life and adventures," and Boston, Estes and Lauriat, copyright, 1880, as "Pioneer life and frontier adventures. An authentic record of the romantic life and daring exploits of Kit Carson and his companions." — W. E. F.

There are alterations in the two later books.

PETERSON, Charles J. Kate Aylesford. A story of the refugees. By Charles J. Peterson, copyright, A. H. Simmons and co., 1855. — The heiress of Sweetwater. By J. Thornton Randolph, author of "The cabin and parlor," copyright, 1873. Both published by T. B. Peterson and bros. — J. E.

Proteus has fairly outdone himself here, both title and author being different in the two, while the books are otherwise identical. It might be supposed that the latter name is a pseudonym adopted by Mr. C. J. Peterson. It appears as a real name in Allibone and many catalogues, and Mr. Edmands states that it is that of a real personage. He also states that "The cabin and the parlor; or, slaves and masters, by J. Thornton Randolph," Phila., T. B. Peterson, copyright, 1852, was also published by the same as "Courtenay hall; or, the hospitality and life in a planter's family," same publisher, no date.

PETRUCELLI DELLA GATTINA, Ferdinando. Popery exposed. An exposition of popery as it is [etc.]. Trans. from the French by Robert E. Peterson. Phila., T. B. Peterson [1875]. — Rome and the papacy [etc], same publishers, copyright, 1872.

PHELPS, Mrs. Elizabeth Stuart. The Sunny side; or, the country minister's wife. By the author of "Little Kitty and her Bible verses." Andover, 1851, and elsewhere. — Manse of Sunnyside. Edinburgh, 1855. The same. — Allibone.

PHILOSOPHY of the sexes. By an old practitioner. [Anon.] 1882. — The secret sins of society. By an old practitioner. [Anon.] 1881. Both, Chicago, Lakeview publ. co. — D. H.

PRATT, L. Maria (pseud. Laurie Loring). The holiday album for girls. Boston, D. Lothrop and co., 1875. Identical with pp. 183-357 of the "Children's picture story-book," by the same author and publisher.

The same author's "Holiday album for boys" consists of pp. 1-181 of the same book.

PUECKLER-MUSKAU, Hermann Ludwig Heinrich, Fürst von. Semilasso in Africa. Adventures in Algiers and other parts of Africa. London, R. Bentley, 1837. — Travels and adventures in Algeria and others parts of Africa. London, R. Bentley, 1839. — D. II.

RANDOLPH, J. Thornton. See Peterson, Charles J.

RAYMOND, Rossiter Worthington.

The following works, written by the author as United States commissioner of mining statistics, were published by the U.S. government:— 1. Mineral resources of the states and territories west of the Rocky mountains. 1869. — 2. Statistics of mines and mining in the states and territories west of the Rocky mountains. 1870. — 3. Same title. 1871. — 4. Same title. 4th annual report. 1873. — 5. 5th annual report. 1874. — These were republished in N.Y. by J. B. Ford and co., with the following titles:— 1. The mines of the West: a report to the Secretary of the treasury. 1869. — 2. Mines and mining of the Rocky mountains, the inland basin and the Pacific slope. 1871. — 3. Mines, mills, and furnaces of the Pacific states and territories. 1871. — 4. Silver and gold [etc.]. 1873. — 5. Mining industry of the states and territories of the Rocky mountains. 1874.

Libraries, as well as private individuals, have received the above books from the United States government, and have afterwards purchased these reissues of the same matter, at high prices ($3.50 to $4.50 each at retail), naturally supposing that they were different books. The motive of the publishers was doubtless a good one, that these books might reach many persons who would not otherwise see them. It would have been better to have kept the original titles.

REID, Mayne. Lost Lenore. N. Y., G. W. Carleton and co., no date. — Heart and hand. Published anonymously, by the same, the author's name being removed. 1881. — D. H., in Library journal, June, 1883.

— The Maroon. By Captain Mayne Reid. London, Routledge; N. Y., R. M. Dewitt; N. Y., Carleton.

This book, a familiar one at bookstores and libraries for more than twenty years, has been republished recently by G. W. Carleton & co., with changes, and omitting the name of the author. The title is changed to "A love spell." If the practice of changing the titles of books is a bad one, to omit the author's name at the same time, as is sometimes the custom nowadays, is doubly evil.¹

Apart from moral considerations, think how this and such practices as we have been considering tend to obliterate all definiteness and exactness in literary records and statistics, and to rob them of all their significance. There but remains to alter the text of the original to suit one's fancy, as is done in several of the reprints mentioned in this list, to inaugurate chaos.

— Odd people. Boston, Osgood, 1874. Republished, N. Y., J. Miller, 1876, as "The man-eaters and other odd people."

— The Quadroon. N. Y., R. M. Dewitt [1856].
— Love's vengeance. (Author's name removed.) G. W. Carleton and co., 1880. — D. H., in Library journal, June, 1883.

"The prairie hunter" and "The Texan ranger" were written by Captain Flack, whose name has hitherto appeared in connection with them. They are now advertised as the product of Captain Mayne Reid's pen. He did not write a line of either. — C. M. Clark, in the Athenæum, Nov. 24, 1883.

¹ It would be interesting to know how the poor authors feel who are thus summarily robbed of their children.

RICHARDSON, Charles James. The Englishman's house from a cottage to a mansion. London, J. C. Hotten [1870]. — House-building, from a cottage to a mansion. N. Y., Putnam, 1873.

Mr. Edmands calls attention to the fact that both the above are the same, with trifling exceptions, as "Picturesque designs for mansions, villas, lodges, etc.," by the same author, London, Atchley and co., 1870, price 42 shillings. The Mercantile Library of Philadelphia, and the Boston Public Library, and, doubtless, other institutions, have copies of all three of these expensive works, purchased on the supposition that they were different books, where one of them would serve the purpose.

RITCHIE, Leitch. The British world in the East. London, Allen and co., 1847. — History of the Oriental nations. London, 1848. — W. F. P.

ROBERTS, Margaret. The atelier du Lys. London, Longmans, 1876. Reprinted with the title "Noblesse oblige. By the author of Mlle. Mori." N. Y., H. Holt, 1876.

The author complains in the Literary world, July 14, 1883, p. 225, that this story was republished under a change of title, without her knowledge. Moreover, she disapproves of the change, especially from the fact that the new title is the same as one already given to a story by Sarah Tytler (Henrietta Keddie).

ROBINSON, Phil. Under the sun. Boston, Roberts, 1882.

Made up of parts of the author's "Noah's ark," "In my Indian garden," "Under the punkah," with other matter. The title reads, "By the author of" these three mentioned books; leaving the impression that it has no connection with them.

ROE, AZEL Stevens. How could he help it? N. Y., Derby and Jackson, 1860. — Give me thine heart. (Author's name removed.) G. W. Carleton and co., 1880. — D.H., in Library journal, June, 1883.

— James Montjoy; or, I've been thinking. N. Y., D. Appleton and co., copyright, 1849.

G. W. Carleton and co. have advertised under Roe's name "I've been thinking," possibly a second issue.

— True to the last. N. Y., Derby and Jackson, 1858. — Faithful to the end. (Author's name removed.) G. W. Carleton and co., 1881. — D. H., in Library journal, June, 1883.

ROOD, Ogden N. Modern chromatics, with applications to art and industry. — Students' text-book of color; or, modern chromatics [etc.].

These, which are the same, were published in 1879 and 1881 by D. Appleton and co., in "The international scientific series."

ROOPER, G. The fox at home; and other tales. London, Hardwicke and Bogue, 1877.

First published in 1874, under the title "Tales and sketches," without a publisher's name. — Preface.

WHO wrote it? A dictionary of common poetical quotations in the English language. London, G. Bell and sons, 1878. A new and enlarged edition of "Where is it?" London, 1855. — Preface.

WHYMPER, Edward. Scrambles amongst the Alps in the years 1860-69. London, John Murray, 1871.

Readers of this book, doubly interesting from its text and striking wood cuts, were eager to purchase what they supposed was to be its sequel in "The ascent of the Matterhorn," same publisher, 1880. They discovered, however, that the new book uses the plates and text of the old one, with some omissions, and, apparently, few additions. If published as a second edition with the same title, few after a comparison of the two, having paid six dollars or thereabouts for the first, would have purchased the second; whereas many copies of the book under its new title have been sold in this country to those who supposed it to be a description of new adventures. The compiler of this list has not been able to find any allusion in the later book to the earlier one.

WIKOFF, Henry. The adventures of a roving diplomatist. N. Y., W. P. Fetridge and co., 1857. — A New Yorker in the foreign office, and his adventures in Paris. London, Trübner and co., 1858. — W. F. P.

WINDLE, Mary Jane. Truth and fancy: tales, legendary, historic, and descriptive. Phila., C. Sherman, 1850. — A legend of the Waldenses, and other tales. 3d edition, enlarged. Phila., J. W. Moore, 1852. The second is an enlarged edition of the first. — D. H.

WINSER, Henry J. The great North-west. N. Y., Putnam's sons. 1883.

Bears upon its side the title "Guide to the Northern Pacific railroad and its allied lines"; upon its back, "Northern Pacific railroad"; upon its title-page, "The great North-west, a guide-book and itinerary" [etc.]; and in its publishers' advertisements, "The tourist's guide to the Northern Pacific railroad." Of course the book is quite likely to find its way into catalogues under each of the four titles, creating an irritating confusion. — The Dial, Oct., 1883, p. 140.

WITT, C. Myths of Hellas; or Greek tales. Told in German by Professor C. Witt. Translated into English by Frances Younghusband. With a preface by Arthur Sedgwick. London, Longmans, Green and co., 1883. Republished, N. Y., H. Holt and co., 1883, with the title, "Classic mythology [etc.]. Supplemented with a glossary of etymologies and related myths."
